

While traveling the roadways of I95 and I4 from Florida to New Jersey I have used the xm services of weather and traffic notifications frequently. While I do possess the use of AM and FM transmissions through my car radio, certain weather and traffic notifications are hard to find, and are not dedicated. The services through XM have been a help to plan out travel and rest times based on weather and traffic and have been vital for safe travel. Without these services I would not be able to easily drive my vehicle and find the proper radio stations in the different regions that I travel. XM is providing me a safe and accurate update which is easily accessed and dedicated. These are only two services of many others that I benefit from. Please regard my statements sincerely and consider the option of a variety and quality based subscription service.
